"Glorfindel." When the warrior didn't wake Erebor touched his shoulder.

"Glorfindel. Wake up, you can't sleep at your desk."

The golden head rose very slowly, eyes blinking into awareness.

"I hope you did not intend to fall asleep. Elrond does not look kindly on this during a meeting." Erebor couldn't help but tease the still sleepy looking Captain.

Glorfindel grinned.

"Not this time, but if his next speech is as boring as this one, I will sleep through it with a good conscience."

Rising to chuckles, Glorfindel bowed to his friend.

"Good night, Erebor."

"Good night, Glorfindel."
